

Vortragsankündigung

Die AG Ökosystemforschung am Institut für Landschaftsökologie lädt zu folgendem Gastvortrag ein:

Hyena dung and glass walls: recent research on threatened birds in southern Ethiopia

Dr. Paul F. Donald (Royal Society for the Protection of Birds, Sandy/UK)

The Ethiopian Bush-crow and the Liben Lark are enigmatic species confined to southern Ethiopia. Both were discovered relatively recently and until recently both were virtually unknown. New research has shown them to be particularly interesting species. This talk will describe the results of this research, will show why the Ethiopian Bush-crow is confined to a tiny range and will explain how hyena dung might be used to help prevent the Liben Lark from becoming mainland Africa's first recorded bird extinction.

Der Vortrag findet am 27. Juni 2012 um 14:00 c.t. im Hörsaal des Instituts für Landschaftsökologie, Robert-Koch-Str. 28, statt.
