

German-Brazilian cooperation intensified - Workshop 'Cities and Climate', November, 11 and 12, 2019

Together with Professor Sabine Schlacke from the Institute of Environmental and Planning Law of the Faculty of Law, the Brazil Centre has organised a workshop to strengthen the strategic partnership between the two universities of Münster and São Paulo. 35 participants from various disciplines – ranging from political and law sciences, geography, architecture, urban planning to economics - were represented. For two days, not only the expected impact of climate change on cities was discussed but also the possible measures to mitigate or even prevent negative impacts.

The workshop mainly focused on environmental und planning law and urban planning issues. Differences and similarities of climate policy in Europe, Germany and Brazil were highlighted. The workshop resulted in agreements on future joint research projects, which partly can be funded by the wwu.usp strategic partnership. The financial resources are available from the German Academic Exchange Service and the University of Münster. Further information can be found at www.uni-muenster.de/WWU.USP/.
