Universität Münster

Öffentliche Gastvorlesung
12. November 2026
16:15 – 17:45 Uhr

Evangelisch-Theologische Fakultät
Universitätsstr. 13-17, Raum 102

© Nike Gals

Muslim and Interreligious Environmentalism in Indonesia

Dr Suhadi Cholil, Lecturer in the Post-Graduate Program of State Islamic University Sunan Kalijaga Yogyakarta, Indonesia

The ecological crisis and climate change have increasingly mobilized religious communities in Indonesia to engage in environmental action. This presentation explores the theological, ethical, and cultural foundations that inspire such engagement, examining how these foundations are interpreted, negotiated, and brought into dialogue across religious traditions. It examines the roles of key actors, the forms of collaboration they develop, and the environmental issues they address.

wissen.leben

Islamisch-Theologische Fakultät
Prof. Dr. Fahimah Ulfat

Seminar für Religionswissenschaft und Interkulturelle Theologie
Prof. Dr. Simone Sinn

Evangelisch-Theologische Fakultät