Edward Said's Translocations

Essays in Secular Criticism

Edited by Tobias Döring, Ludwig Maximilian University of Munich, Germany and Mark Stein, University of Münster, Germany

Series: Routledge Research in Postcolonial Literatures

This book brings into focus Said's politics of reading from his literary criticism in English to his political columns in Arabic, considering location, readings, and legacies. The international contributors engage with critical and cultural theory, postcolonialism, literary studies, theatre and performance studies, and visual and music studies to investigate his intellectual legacies. The various arguments explored offer a critical assessment of those situations in which his writing has entered into a productive relationship with other theoretical positions and interlocutors.
