Migration work in a social welfare organization as a possible sphere of activity for social anthropologists

Are there any other spheres of activity for social anthropologists beyond the common areas of development cooperation, museums or ethnographic field research? Yes, there are! For example in a social welfare organization. Sarah Haßelmann (MA Social Anthropology) and Svetlana Kryuchkova introduce the wide range of migration work at the Red Cross and discuss chances and challenges of working in this area in a large social welfare organization as well as the question of how to start a carrier there. Directly thereafter, a new project "Tandem language learning" will be presented.
