Transnational Labour Markets: The Case of the Meat Industry

The presentation puts a transnational labour market center stage that has attracted much public attention in summer 2020, when the large German meatpacking plants faced major Corona outbreaks: The transnational labour market that matches Eastern European workers on jobs in the German meat industry. Drawing on this empirical example, Ursula Mense-Petermann focuses on the preconditions that enable such transnational labour markets to emerge.

The Institute's Colloquium will take place digitally and the required information will be announced.

Everybody is welcome!
