

Call for Applications: DAAD-STIBET Community Engagement Grants

Within the scope of the DAAD project STIDokWWU (STIBET Doktoranden), funded by the Federal Foreign Office (Auswärtiges Amt), the WWU Graduate Centre provides community engagement grants for international doctoral candidates. The grants aim to support international doctoral candidates at the University of Münster who are characterized by a high community engagement in the international context related to the university. The goal is to honor community engagement, support it and motivate future involvement.

Who can apply?

The application is open for international doctoral candidates, who

- have acquired their university entry qualification outside of Germany
- are enrolled at the WWU
- distinguish themselves by extraordinary community engagement in international affairs related to the WWU

Extent and duration of funding

The extent of the funding is 250€/month and the grants are awarded for 6 months. Extensions up to 12 months may be possible.

Funding prerequisites and selection criteria

- Matriculation at the WWU
- Distinguished community engagement in the international context related to the university
- Quality of the recommendation letter
- Good academic performance (publications, prizes, study duration)

There is no legal entitlement to the award of a grant.

Application deadline

Applications can be submitted until 31.03.2022.
