The Chair of Sociology of Religion at the Institute of Sociology in the Faculty of Educational and Social Science at the University of Münster, Germany, is seeking to fill the post of a

Postdoctoral Researcher (m/f/x),
(salary level TV-L E13, 100%)

The position is available from 2 March 2020 at the earliest. This fixed-term post is available for a period of three years. Currently, the regular working time for full (100%) employment is 39 hours and 50 minutes per week. All posts can, as a rule, also be filled as part-time positions if there are no compelling work-related reasons against doing so.

Job Description

The researcher will teach 4 hours per week and will independently conduct and publish empirical research in the broad field of sociology of religion as well as organizations, culture or migration. The postdoctoral researcher is expected to contribute to the preparation of funding proposals for research projects.

Requirements:

- a doctoral degree in sociology with excellent results
- a research interest in topics relevant to the sociology of religion demonstrated through publications
- the capacity to link sociological theory to empirical data
- an empirical, quantitative research profile
- an understanding of the intersections between quantitative and qualitative methods
- excellent English written and communication skills and a willingness to learn German
- additional language skills are welcome

The University of Münster is an equal opportunity employer and is committed to increasing the proportion of women academics. Consequently, we actively encourage applications by women. Female candidates with equivalent qualifications and academic achievements will be preferentially considered within the framework of the legal possibilities. We also welcome applications from candidates with severe disabilities. Disabled candidates with equivalent qualifications will be preferentially considered.

Please submit your application (one single pdf-file) to the address below by 5 January 2020. The application should contain a motivation letter, CV, relevant certificates and a two-page outline of your planned research.
